

event. There are to be any number of powdered dames and damsels, but it is whispered that a compromise has been effected and the men are to be allowed to wear any old thing, from an office suit to a tuxedo. The motto is said to be even among the married folks "anything to get them there."

There's the making of all kinds of romances down at Goldfield, but the one that is being watched by former Salt Lakers just at present is most absorbing. It relates to a man and any number of maidens, with perhaps a widow or two thrown in, and if it were not for the danger of the experiment there might be some gambling going as to the outcome of it. There's an "own true love" but not an only one in it, and the danger is that she'll object vigorously to the others.

The Sheldon L. Butlers, whose stay in our midst has not been measured by a great expanse of time, but who have been extremely popular during their residence here, are the latest to join the westerners in New York. They will make their home there hereafter but there is every reason to believe they will make a run out to Utah occasionally. Mrs. Butler and her little daughter will leave soon for the metropolis.

There will be a great many social happenings at the military post during the next week or so, many affairs being planned in compliment to the delegation of visiting officers who will invade the garrison. Among the more important are an informal reception to be given by Colonel and Mrs. B. C. Lockwood on Tuesday evening and a large hop next Saturday night.

Spoons have gone slightly out of fashion it seems as articles for "showering" a fair bride and the latest plan is a new up-to-date one. It is to have a hose party. This may sound summery but it isn't. Each girl invited brings a pair,—not a length,—and these are embroidered while you wait. A clever one?

The fuss in club life is the usual breakfast of the big club, the Ladies' Literary which will take place the middle of the month at the Manitou. If the women could air a little of the scandal and back-biting at the breakfast that has been heard in connection with the details of the arrangements it would be an unequalled success.

The coldest looking proposition seen in the fashionable world in many days is the new line of straw hats shown in the shop windows. If there is anything calculated to make a man have a chill and require a comforting drink these days it's a glance at the millinery display.

Mrs. M. A. Stingley entertained Wednesday afternoon at a tea for a few of her friends, being assisted by her two daughters, Mrs. Newhouse and Mrs. Moore, her grand daughters, Miss Leila Stingley and Miss Georgelda Moore, and by Mrs. Richard Stingley and Mrs. Harry Irwin.

Mrs. H. G. McMillan gave luncheons on Tuesday and Wednesday of the past week, a dozen of her friends being at each.

The seventh Symphony concert was an event of the week which has been a full one musically.

As is usual the affair was as largely social as musical, the house displaying more finery than is customary at any matinee of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Holman will go to New York early in the spring and will sail later for a year or so abroad. They will be joined in New York by their daughter, Mrs. T. W. London of Portland.

Mrs. Henry Siegel and son, Harold, who are spending the winter in New York, were guests at the President Roosevelt and Secretary Shaw receptions Washington, last week.

The stork paid a visit to the Charles Read's home during the week and left another boy for the Albert R. Hagers, Mrs. Hager being here on a visit.

Mrs. E. O. Howard was the hostess on Tuesday at an elaborate luncheon at the Alta club in honor of Mrs. Francis Pastorius of Colorado Springs.

The Misses Elizabeth and Mildred McMillan will give a dance Thursday evening next at the McMillan home in honor of their cousin, Miss Margaret Corn.

The marriage of Miss Alice Paul and George M. P. Dougall will take place on Tuesday next.

Mrs. Mont. Ferry entertains at a luncheon on Tuesday for Mrs. Pastorius.

The daughters of the American Revolution will give their annual breakfast at the Manitou hotel on Friday, February 22.

Mrs. Frank Knox was the hostess on Wednesday at a beautifully appointed luncheon for her guest, Mrs. E. W. Matson of Ogden.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cosgriff entertained at a dinner Wednesday evening at their home on Brigham street, twelve of their friends being invited.
